Each of these full-color waterproof maps provides an overview of a particular reach of the river. Noted are areas of caution, dams, and access locations.

The ICF/AWA International Scale of River Difficulty

Portions of the Delaware River covered by this 10-map series were initially evaluated in accordance with the International Canoe Federation/American Whitewater Affiliation (ICF/AWA) International Scale of River Difficulty during the spring, summer, and fall of 1978. These classifications were field checked during the summers of 2004 and 2005. The classifications are believed to represent average river flows at summer temperatures.
