108th ARW flies wounded Soldiers from Afghanistan to Germany

Recently nine members of the 108th Air Refueling Wing flew a KC-135E on a long trip from McGuire, to Andrews Air Force Base to Ramstein (Germany) Air Base to Bagram (Afghanistan) Air Base, with a return trip to Bagram. With medical crews, the members of the 108th were transporting wounded members of the U.S. military from Afghanistan to Germany to reach the next higher level of care.

Flying 43 hours in seven days, the crew flew two night missions from Germany to Afghanistan due to enemy ground fire.

According to Brig. Gen. Michael L. Cunniff, commander of the 108th Air Refueling Wing and one of the three pilots on the mission, it was an opportunity to apply much of the training they have received over the years.

"With enemy fire and the mountainous terrain – our runway was 5,000 feet in altitude and had mountains on either side that towered 18,000 in the air – it made piloting the plane even more difficult," he said. "But it was a good opportunity to apply our training and tactics."

The plane carried a total of 12 litters and 21 ambulatory patients on its two trips from Bagram to Ramstein. Each trip entailed almost 24 hours from the time they left Germany, landed in Afghanistan, loaded patients and fuel and flew back to Ramstein.

Gen. Cunniff talked about one of the differences between a refueling flight and an air evac mission. "On a regular refuel mission, the pilot is the mission and aircraft commander," he stated. "But on the air evacuation missions, the medical commander is the mission commander."

"The medical commander could direct the pilot depending on the patient's needs, for instance, we might need to fly lower for cabin pressure if the patient warrants it," Cunniff said. "We have to adjust our flying profile to the medical commander's requirements for the patients."

"There is no mission more important than getting our wounded troops home to medical treatment quickly," Gen. Cunniff stated.

History of Black History Month

Americans have recognized black history annually since 1926, first as "Negro History Week" and later as "Black History Month." What you might not know is that black history had barely begun to be studied – or even documented – when the tradition originated. Although blacks have been in America at least as far back as colonial times, it was not until the 20th century that they gained a respectable presence in the history books.

We owe the celebration of Black History Month, and more importantly, the study of black history, to Dr. Carter G. Woodson. Born to parents who were former slaves, he spent his childhood working in the Kentucky coal mines and enrolled in high school at age twenty. He graduated within two years and later went on to earn a doctorate from Harvard. The scholar was disturbed to find in his studies that history books largely ignored the black American population and when blacks did figure into the picture, it was generally in ways that reflected the inferior social position they were assigned at the time.

Woodson, always one to act on his ambitions, decided to take on the challenge of writing black Americans into the nation's history. He established the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History (now called the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History) in 1915, and a year later founded the widely respected Journal of Negro History. In 1926, he launched Negro History Week as an initiative to bring national attention to the contributions of black people throughout American history.

Woodson chose the second week of February for Negro History Week because it marks the birthdays of two men who greatly influenced the black American population, Frederick Douglass and Abraham Lincoln. However, February has much more than Douglass and Lincoln to show for its significance in black American history. For example:

☒ February 23, 1868: W. E. B. DuBois, important civil rights leader and co-founder of the NAACP, was born.

☒ February 3, 1870: The 15th Amendment was passed, granting blacks the right to vote.

☒ February 25, 1870: The first black U.S. senator, Hiram R. Revels (1822-1901), took his oath of office.

☒ February 12, 1909: The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was founded by a group of concerned black and white citizens in New York City.

☒ February 1, 1960: In what would become a civil-rights movement milestone, a group of black college students began a sit-in at a segregated Woolworth's lunch counter in Greensboro, N.C.

☒ February 21, 1965: Malcolm X, the militant leader who promoted Black Nationalism, was shot to death by three Black Muslims.

Tax season help for military members

We are now in the midst of tax season and preparing for the check that Uncle Sam will send our way or digging down to find the $$$ to pay those taxes owed. Here are some tips from various sources to help when it comes to filing.

Review your return before sending it off to the tax man – common problems, especially for paper returns are missing signatures and incorrect Social Security numbers.

The Internal Revenue Service Publication 3, titled, "Armed Forces' Tax Guide" is available at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p3.pdf.

By visiting the IRS Web site – www.irs.gov – and clicking on the "Individuals" button in the upper left of the screen, you can then find information on military issues in two ways. First, there will be a "Military" button that will show on the line right under the "Individuals" button. Second, scroll down the page to the "Tax Information for Members of the U.S. Armed Forces" button.

Veterans run to support scholarships

On May 2, Efren Cazales, a Marine combat veteran, and William D. Brown Jr., a Navy SEAL combat veteran, will run from Rutgers Camden campus to Rutgers new Brunswick campus, a distance of 65 miles.

Both Cazales and Brown are members of Veterans for Education, a Rutgers University group that promotes veterans in a positive light and also promotes the value of education. Veterans for Education, along with Rutgers alumni, have started a scholarship fund for veterans.

The run by Cazales and Brown is to promote funding for the scholarship program. Tax-deductible donations can be sent to Rutgers-Camden, Office of Development, 411 Cooper Street, 2nd floor, Camden NJ 08102; checks should be made out to Rutgers University Foundation: Rutgers Alumni Scholarship for Combat Veterans Fund.

Fundraiser being held for scholarship to honor late NJ Guardsman

From the desk of retired Command Sgt. Maj. Mike Hughes, Family Assistance Specialist

Sgt. Anthony D. LaSelva from New Jersey's Co D/250th BSB was among the 4,000 troops from the Minnesota National Guard's 1-34th Infantry Division who left Camp Shelby, Miss., on March 16, 2006 to deploy to Iraq. His unit was scheduled to stay a year. LaSelva was one of the New Jersey soldiers ordered in January 2007 to remain in the Iraq for an additional 125 days. The 21-year-old New Jersey Army National Guard sergeant survived 15 months in Iraq only to perish less than three months after returning home. LaSelva was killed in a motorcycle accident on Sept. 13, 2007.

As a tribute to Sgt. LaSelva for not only serving our country, but also for touching the lives of so many with his passion and kindness, his friends and family have decided to organize a fundraiser in his honor. All of the proceeds will be donated to Washington Township High School to form a scholarship in his name: The Sgt. Anthony D. LaSelva Memorial Fund. Anything that anyone can do to help with the fundraiser would be greatly appreciated. There will be a Chinese Auction at the event so they are in need of things to fill the baskets, whether it is a gift certificate or merchandise. All donations are tax deductible. Any questions or concerns, contact Malorie Mullen at 856-364-5646. The event will be held on Saturday, Feb. 23, 6-10 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center, 315 Greentree Road, Turnersville NJ 08012. Honorable Mention

Battlemind supports Soldiers, families through deployment cycle

Battlemind is a term used to describe combat readiness. The first Battlemind product was a mental health post-deployment briefing. It quickly became a training system supporting Soldiers and families across the seven phases of the deployment cycle. The Battlemind system includes separate pre-deployment training modules for Soldiers, unit leaders, health-care providers and spouses. Psychological debriefings are given in theater and upon redeployment. There is also a post-deployment module for spouses and several post-deployment modules for Soldiers. Pre-deployment Battlemind tells Soldiers what they are likely to see, to hear, to think and to feel while deployed - by describing the worst-case scenario. Post-deployment Battlemind addresses safety concerns, relationship issues, normalized combat-related mental health reactions and symptoms -- along with teaching Soldiers when they should seek mental health support for themselves or for their buddies. All of the Battlemind products (training modules, brochures, debriefings and videos are available on the Web site, www.battlemind.org.

Data security breach announced

Recently, a Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ employee's laptop was stolen that contained personal information, including the name, address and social security number of some of their members. Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ does not believe any medical data was on the computer.

Several security measures are naturally set in place to safeguard data and prevent its access should this rare situation occur. However, since the privacy and security of some members' personal information may be at risk, Horizon BCBSNJ is notifying each impacted member or dependent directly by letter of this incident. Again, this breach has not affected everyone who is a member.

If you do not wish to wait, you may call them at 1-800-447-3798 to confirm if you are affected. When calling, please have your insurance card available and be prepared to provide your ID number. If you have any further questions, please contact your Benefits Administrator or Horizon BCBSNJ directly.

Space A rules have changed

Dependents of service members who have been deployed for 120 days or longer will now find it easier to travel on Space Available military flights (Space-A). Due to a change in policy effective Dec. 6, 2007, military families no longer need to be accompanied by their service member when traveling Space-A regardless of where they are based. Prior to the change, military dependents could only travel unaccompanied from an overseas location to the family's home of record within the continental United States or within an overseas theater of operation. Additionally, they were limited to one round trip during the military sponsor's deployment period. Under the new policy, family members may now travel unlimited times during the deployment when seats are available. However, family members planning to use Space-A transportation will need a verification letter from the military sponsor's commander confirming the service member's deployment. In addition, an eligible parent or legal guardian must accompany family members under age 18. For more information regarding the Space-A travel program, please visit the Air Mobility Command website at www.amc.af.mil/.

Association News

Enlisted Association wants YOU!

By retired Command Sgt. Maj. Mike Hughes, EANG-NJ

The Enlisted Association National Guard-New Jersey is off to a good start for 2008 as we have realigned all the committees and filled both the Executive Council and Committees with a cross section of Army and Air, uniformed and retirees, and several junior NCOs. Everyone appears to be enthused and pledges to support the Association in all its efforts. All we need now is for you to get on board as a member and bring your fellow soldiers and airmen with you.

We have many challenges facing us over the next few years whether it is another round of base closures via the Base Realignment Commission (BRAC), reduction in TRICARE benefits, reduction in troop strength, attempts to maintain the retirement age at 60, etc. We need a powerful voice to put our message across to the State and Federal Legislators and this can only be accomplished through a strong membership in our State Association (EANG-NJ) and the National Association (EANGUS).

The new membership year starts on 1 January 2008 and we need your help in making our Association grow. We encourage all enlisted soldiers and airmen to join the Association as Active Members and also welcome all officers, warrant officers, federal, and state employees to join as Associate Members. Applications for membership can be obtained from our website www.eang-nj.org.
