There was no monies that were received by Mr. Davis or this other individual. And I think that this is the way that this is ultimately going to play out, I would say that I don't think that Mr. Davis is going to be found guilty by any measuring stick, whether it's pleading guilty, being found guilty of any criminal wrongdoing. And that's going to take some time for this matter to wind its way through the criminal justice system and then its way through the court system. And I think that it would be unfair and unjust to Mr. Davis, an individual who has no criminal history and impeccable character but for this allegation. And if Mr. Davis is guilty of what I presented here today to the Commission, I don't know that that changes, respectfully. I don't know that that makes Mr. Davis someone not worthy of holding that license or not worthy of working in the casino industry, which I do understand is a privilege and not

These charges are currently pending adjudication. These criminal charges and the underlying conduct are disqualifying pursuant to Sections 86C-1, 86D and 86G of the Casino Control Act.
