REENTRY SUPPORTIVE SERVICES FOR PEOPLE FORMERLY INCARCERATED

Take Notice that in compliance with N.J.S.A. 52:14-34.4 et seq. (P.L. 1987, c.7), the Department of Corrections hereby publishes a notice of the availability of the following grant:

A. Information for Bidders (Background)

According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, in 2021, the US criminal justice system held almost 1.2 million people in state prisons.¹ A recent analysis of the New Jersey Department of Corrections (NJDOC) inmate census revealed that NJDOC currently houses approximately 12,000 inmates.² About (59%) percent of all state correctional institution offenders were Black³. Further analysis revealed that six counties alone, Essex, Camden, Passaic, Atlantic, Middlesex, and Union, comprise more than half (53%) of total NJDOC commitments. Additional counties with large municipalities defined as urban communities and a significant number of incarcerated citizens include Hudson 6% and Mercer 5%.⁴

Many citizens fail to realize that incarceration is not a permanent circumstance for most incarcerated persons. According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, at least 95% of all State prisoners will be released at some point, with approximately 80% being released to parole supervision.⁵ Community reintegration from state prison is a challenging process. A lack of support and follow-up with discharge plans developed prerelease can contribute to unsuccessful community reintegration. As a result of difficulty accessing services to meet basic needs, many returning citizens will abandon the prosocial skills learned and return to familiar mechanisms to address social and financial problems.

Preparing those incarcerated for reintegration into the community is as crucial as connecting them with prosocial support and community-based service agencies to aid in their successful reintegration. To achieve success, the NJDOC seeks to establish diverse community partnerships that can provide a broad spectrum of reentry services to empower returning citizens to continue the path of prosocial and law-abiding development, which continues to drive the NJDOC to lead the nation in combating recidivism.

The NJDOC does not embrace a one-size-fits-all solution to reentry service provision. To that end, the New Jersey Department of Corrections recognizes that reintegration is most successful when communities and corrections come together to share a collective goal, honor the mutual interest of methodologies for addressing public safety, affirm the bond between them and celebrate urban communities' ability to succeed when given fair access to resources. The goal is a cooperative partnership for successful reentry service delivery. Our mission is service delivery at the local level, empowered by communities that develop necessary resources, holding community-based agencies accountable for advertised services, and forward-thinking strategies for determining service integration models.

To achieve this goal, the NJDOC created the NJLEAD initiative. NJLEAD stands for Locally Empowered, Accountable, and Determined. NJLEAD aims to establish a coordinated and collaborative effort to ensure a continuum of care and treatment from prison to community. An effective reintegration process is collaborative and most successful when returning citizens understand their right to self-determination and are empowered to choose service providers who offer resources that meet their unique needs. As a result, urban communities with a consortium consisting of a broad spectrum of diverse service providers experienced working with those once involved in the carceral system provide an opportunity for successful reentry.

Designated nonprofit community-based corporations or associations will work in concert with the NJDOC, Division of Programs and Reintegration Services, the newly developed Office of Community Engagement and Reintegration Initiatives (CERI), the Office of Programming and Supportive Services (OPSS), and the Office of Community Programs (OCP). The goal is to ensure that the rehabilitative work, academic, and vocational training implemented inside the correctional facility continues and expands immediately upon release to reduce the likelihood of high recidivism rates presently seen in the national statistics.

The NJDOC has received State funding through the Office of the Governor to support NJLEAD's reentry supportive services initiative in urban communities and communities impacted by high incarceration rates in New Jersey. This funding is designed to promote various evidence-informed and effective reentry initiatives for those returning home from prison and to provide urban communities with the necessary resources to support and enhance the State of New Jersey and its ongoing success in reducing recidivism.
