The Department of Health provides this guidance to clarify that a single legal entity licensed to provide both mental health services and substance use disorder services is permitted to share clinical space for those services. Although Ambulatory Care Facilities (ACFs) providing behavioral health services must continue to meet waiver requirements to share clinical space, dually licensed mental health and substance use disorder facilities are not subject to the same regulatory restrictions and thus do not need a waiver.

The Department notes, however, that when providing mental health and substance use services in a shared clinical space, the facility must continue to:

1. Comply with all state and federal laws and regulations, particularly those pertaining to confidentiality and client rights; and
2. Comply with the licensing and program standards applicable to both substance use disorder and mental health facility licenses
