SCI to Reveal Findings of Probe Into Waste and Abuse in School Roof Construction Projects

The State Commission of Investigation will detail the results of a lengthy investigation into waste and abuse in public school roofing projects during two days of hearings this month.

The hearings will get under way at 9 a.m. Wednesday (December 8). The second session will be held beginning at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, December 15. Both hearings will be held in Committee Room 11 on the 4th floor of the Statehouse Annex in Trenton.

The SCI's investigation was statewide in scope. More than 100 separate roof construction projects were examined in 39 school districts across 13 of New Jersey's 21 counties. During the hearings, more than two dozen witnesses, including roofing contractors, design consultants, and state and local officials will be called to testify.
