Treasurer Scudder Identifies Resources for New Jersey Taxpayers Facing April 18 Filing Deadline

TRENTON – Help is available for New Jersey taxpayers racing to meet the April 18 deadline for filing 2016 tax returns.

“Comprehensive information is online at the Division of Taxation website, our call center has extended its hours, and walk-in tax assistance centers located in six Garden State cities will be open longer to help taxpayers with tough filing issues,” State Treasurer Ford M. Scudder said.

John J. Ficara, Acting Director of the New Jersey Division of Taxation, reminded taxpayers that returns for 2016 or a request for an extension must be filed by 11:59 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18. The Division of Taxation wants taxpayers to avoid penalties and interest and strives to provide the resources needed to help everyone file on time.

“New Jersey followed the federal government decision to extend the filing deadline by three days this year,” Ficara said. “The Division of Taxation has adjusted its hours of assistance accordingly.”

Ficara also advised low-income taxpayers to file federal and State returns if they wish to receive Governor Chris Christie’s enhanced Earned Income Tax Credit.

“Taxpayers who think they may qualify for an Earned Income Tax Credit should file both federally and with the State of New Jersey, regardless of their income levels,” Ficara said.
